CABINET DESIGN PROCESS

COMPLIMENTARY SERVICES

Please bring architects plans/measurements and completed Cabinetry Checklist to the first meeting with our cabinet design expert. (Tues-Sat) During the first meeting we will select wood species, doorstyles, and upgrades that appeal to you. The designer will gather any necessary information and prepare a preliminary cabinet proposal, which will be discussed at the second meeting. Once you are comfortable with the cabinet pricing we can move forward to the design phase.

DESIGN PHASE

To begin the design phase Ecohaus requires a $1,000.00 retainer or 10 % of your cabinet purchase—whichever is greater. (The design retainer is non-refundable, but will be applied towards your cabinet purchase.) The designer will come to your home, measure your space, and ask for your appliance selection. If you are using some of your existing appliances, the designer will measure those as well.

If the walls are not in place, we can still begin the design process, but we will need to measure once the walls are in place. The next meeting will be at the showroom and we will review the floorplan and elevations. We will work together until you are satisfied with the design.

ORDER PLACEMENT

When you are ready to place your order, Ecohaus requires a 50% deposit and a signed cabinetry contract. The lead time will depend upon what cabinet supplier you are working with. You will be given a ship-date within one week of placing your order. The remaining balance of the deposit will be due two days before the cabinets arrive.
